Accounting for Scope 3 greenhouse gas emissions
International literature indicates that Scope 3 greenhouse gas emissions could be the most important for some organisations. The project involves gathering information about scope 3 emissions and the voluntary standard recently introduced for their reporting. What is the position in Australia where reporting on scope 3 emissions is not required under the NGER Act which became effective on 1 July 2012? In which industries are scope 3 emissions of significance? The project reviews this issue.
