

Iris Kirkpatrick is a Research Director at the Institute for Sustainable Futures, UTS. Iris has a successful track record in working across the private, public and voluntary sectors to implement the global and local sustainability agenda. Her research and policy skills are particularly focused on linking environmental and social justice. She will adopt the role of 'early researcher' on this project.