Recreation Leave	Research degree students are entitled to receive up to 20 working days paid recreation leave for each year of the stipend. This paid recreation leave may be accrued over the life of the stipend but will be forfeited when the stipend is terminated. A student's maximum period of support is not increased as a result of this leave.
Sick Leave	Research degree students are entitled to receive up to 10 days paid sick leave for each year of the stipend. This paid sick leave may be accrued over the life of the stipend but will be forfeited when the stipend is terminated. A student's maximum period of support is not increased as a result of this leave.
Additional Paid Sick Leave	Research degree students may also receive additional paid sick leave up to a total of 60 working days over the life of their stipend where the student has insufficient sick leave entitlements available, provided that a medical certificate has been provided by the student. The maximum period of support for a student receiving a stipend is increased where this leave is utilised.
Carer's leave	Sick leave entitlements (including additional paid sick leave) may be used to cover leave for research degree students with family caring responsibilities.

Parental leave	Research degree students who have completed 12 months of their stipend will be entitled to 10 working days paid parental leave at the time of the birth or adoption. The maximum period of support for a student receiving a stipend is increased where this leave is utilised.
Maternity leave	Research degree students who have completed 12 months of their stipend will be entitled to 60 working days paid maternity leave during the stipend period. Paid leave may also be approved if the student has adopted a child. The maximum period of support for a student receiving a stipend is increased where this leave is utilised.
Jury Duty	Research degree students receiving a stipend will continue to receive their regular stipend throughout the period of jury service. The maximum period of support for a research degree student receiving a stipend is increased where this leave is utilised.

Length of scholarship – The length of stipend differs from the length of candidature (funded by RTPd fee offset). The maximum period for a research degree stipend will be up to three years for a Doctoral program or a maximum of two years for a Masters by Research. Periods of study towards the research degree, within three years prior to commencement, will be deducted from the period of the scholarship (Policy: section 10.5).

The letter of offer will detail the duration of the scholarship. The scholarship (tuition fees – where applicable – and stipend) will cease:

- if the student ceases to meet the conditions of the scholarship in 10.11 of the Higher Degree by Research Scholarships and Prizes policy or any additional conditions included in the offer of scholarship
- when the thesis is approved for examination by the Associate Dean: Research Education (or equivalent) or when the maximum period of the scholarship expires, whichever is earlier. The stipend ceases from the date that the thesis is approved for examination
- if the course of study is not being carried out with competence and diligence or in accordance with the offer of candidature, and no suitable alternative arrangements can be made for continuation of the postgraduate degree
- if the research degree student does not resume study at the conclusion of a period of leave of absence or does not make arrangements to extend that period of leave of absence
- on the death, incapacity, resignation or withdrawal of the research degree student
- if the research degree student takes up full-time employment OR
- if the research degree student is receiving an equivalent award, scholarship or salary providing a benefit greater than 75% of the RTPd stipend rate to undertake a higher degree by research

Extension to scholarship – research degree students receiving an RTPd or USAPA stipend and undertaking Doctoral degrees may apply to the University to extend their stipend for up to six months. The University must be satisfied that the grounds for extension are beyond the control of the research degree student and are related to their studies rather than of a personal nature such as illness. Extensions are not automatically granted. There are no extensions for Masters by Research scholarships.

The Associate Dean: Research Education (or equivalent), on application from the research degree student and supported by the Principal Supervisor and Research Education Portfolio Leader (REPL) (or equivalent), may grant a research degree student an extension to the stipend for a period normally not exceeding six months (Policy: section 10.6). Work commitments cannot be accepted as grounds for an extension.

Residency of scholarship holders – Research degree students normally reside in South Australia from the date of their commencement and for the duration of the scholarship, except for periods where permission has been given to travel overseas or interstate for research purposes. Scholarship holders will normally be enrolled as an internal student.

Ongoing eligibility – Each research degree student must continue to meet the eligibility requirements set out in this document, the Higher Degree by Research Scholarships and Prizes policy and Conditions of Candidature set out in the offer.

Suspension of scholarship – Research degree students can apply to suspend their scholarship if necessary to take leave of absence.

Relocation allowance (RTPd /USAPA stipend only) – In the case of scholarship holders relocating their place of residence to take up their RTPd stipend or USAPA, economy or student concession airfares or kilometre allowance for car travel, and removal expenses – up to a maximum of $1,485 – may be paid.

Research degree students must lodge receipts with Student and Academic Services within six months of commencement. For information about accommodation please visit: <http://www.unisa.edu.au/Student-Life/Student-accommodation/>

Thesis allowance (RTPd/USAPA stipend only) – The thesis allowance is payable to assist with costs associated with the production and preparation of the thesis. Receipts are required for the reimbursement of costs involved in the thesis preparation and production.

The maximum allowance is AUD$420 for a Master's thesis and AUD$840 for a Doctoral thesis. After submission of your thesis for examination, you will need to lodge a claim with Student and Academic Services within six months of the final thesis submission and within 24 months of termination or expiry of your stipend.

Part-time scholarships (Policy: section 13.3) – Part-time scholarships offered by the University may be approved only if the research degree student has exceptional circumstances.

The University must be satisfied that the exceptional circumstances relate to significant caring commitments or a medical condition which limits the research degree student's capacity to undertake full-time study.

Some externally funded scholarships allow part-time study, please refer to individual conditions.

Additional conditions – Scholarship recipients may apply to vary their candidacy in accordance with the Academic Regulations for Higher Degrees by Research and the University's established scholarship conditions or, where applicable, those applying to the named scholarship (Policy: section 12.3).

If the research degree student is in receipt of a named scholarship, they may have additional or different conditions. Where different, the conditions set out by the named scholarship normally override the general conditions stated above.

Acknowledgement – The Commonwealth contribution is to be acknowledged when, at any time during or after completion of their research degree, the recipient of the RTP scholarship publishes or produces materials such as their thesis, books, articles, newsletters or other literary or artistic works which relate to the research project carried out by the recipient of the RTP scholarship.

Legal advice – All research degree students are strongly urged to seek their own independent legal advice regarding Intellectual Property and other contractual arrangements, both with the University and any external parties.
