

Lynn Yeen & Li Yeen Goh Malaysia

Bachelor of Pharmacy, students

If you think that UniSA is all about study, think again. Just ask first-year Pharmacy students and twins, Lynn and Li Goh, who have found time in their busy schedules to enjoy the lighter side of student life.

As well as joining clubs and societies and becoming avid readers of UniSA's student newspaper, Li and Lynn have visited many parts of their new home on tours organised by the Students Association.

"The tours are interesting and also quite cheap," says Lynn. "So far we've been to Victor Harbor, Hahndorf, the Murray River, and the Mount Lofty Ranges."

Lynn and Li's adventures around the state haven't stopped them from staying on top of their uni work, though. Both are passionate about their studies and Lynn says they have received great support from their lecturers.

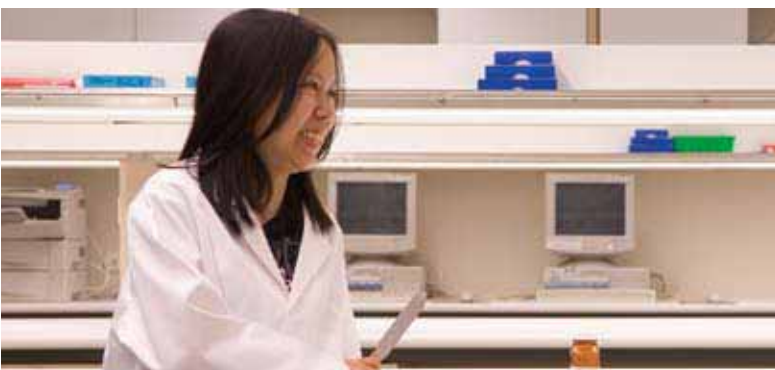

"They're very genuine and approachable," she says. "If you don't understand something they're glad to help."

UniSA's learning services and facilities have also made the transition to living and studying overseas a little easier. UniSA's Firstconnection for International Students offered the ideal opportunity to become familiar with the facilities, security and services on campus.

"UniSA really caters to students' needs," Li says. "We particularly like the international student common room and the women's room – and the café is also high quality!"

While they would both love to travel more extensively when they graduate, the twins are prepared to continue working hard on their pharmacy careers in Australia.

"Pharmacy is always changing so you need to be diligent and remain updated about the industry," says Li. "It's a job that needs lifelong learning so you have to work hard."
