About the University of South Australia

The University of South Australia (UniSA) is a young institution with an agile, innovative approach to educating tomorrow's professionals and solving today's challenges. As a University of Enterprise, its efforts are focused on providing economic and social benefits to the nation and the world.

Formed in 1991, the University has already established a global reputation for the quality and creativity of its graduates and the innovative, outcomes-focused relevance of its research.

Its global reputation continues to grow. It is ranked in the world's top 50 universities under 50 years old by both THE (Times Higher Education) (#35) and QS (Quacarelli Symonds) (#25) world university rankings. THE also ranked the University of South Australia amongst the world's best young international universities.

The University maintains a strong commitment to teaching and learning, and ranks in the top 10 nationally for the proportion of its staff with a doctorate (73 per cent). Its MBA program consistently ranks amongst the best in the country, holding a five-star rating for eight consecutive years (as awarded by the Graduate Management Association of Australia).

With almost 33,000 students, more than 6,000 of whom are international students, UniSA offers degree programs in business, education, arts, social sciences, health sciences, information technology, engineering and the environment that are designed with strong professional emphasis and in partnership with industry. Its graduate employment rates are above the national average. The University is rated Number One in South Australia for the employment rate of its graduates; 91 per cent of those going on to full-time work are employed in a professional occupation within four months of completing their degree.

The University continues to develop a strong research environment, and is home to a range of dedicated research institutes and centres and is a key partner in a number of Cooperative Research Centres that, in collaboration with industry and government, are focused on helping to deliver practical and enduring solutions to real-world problems.

Among the University of South Australia's priority areas for multidisciplinary research are health sciences, resources and energy sustainability, world-changing designs and technologies, resilient and inclusive societies and the enhanced quality and productivity of working life.

Its research capabilities include the new multi-million dollar Future Industries Institute (FII) which focuses on building knowledge and capacity in core future industries; the Hawke Research Institute, Australia's largest social science and humanities institute, the Sansom Institute for Health Research, the University's premier health and biomedical research concentration and the Ehrenberg-Bass Institute for Marketing Science, one of the world's leading centres for research in marketing.

The Training School

Other key research groupings are focused on discoveries in the fundamental causes of cancer, and translating these discoveries into new ways to prevent and treat this disease.

With campuses in the heart of Adelaide, in the metropolitan area (Mawson Lakes and Magill) and in the regional cities of Whyalla and Mount Gambier, the University provides opportunities to students from a wide range of geographic, socio-economic and cultural backgrounds. It is currently implementing a $1 billion-plus building program to further enhance its physical and virtual infrastructure.

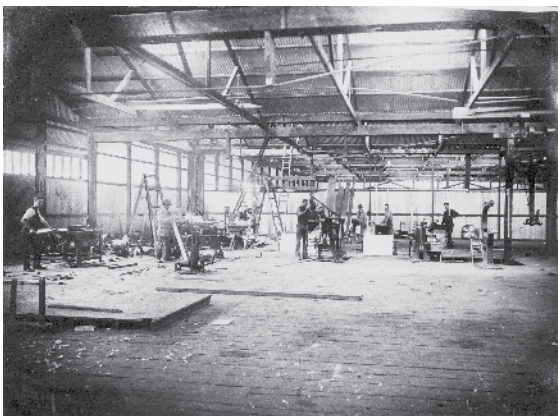

Across the University, its broad range of programs is designed to increase opportunity for Aboriginal people, and those who have experienced educational, social or geographical disadvantage. It was the first Australian university to make a formal commitment to reconciliation and to embed this in the institution's core values. It was the first South Australian university to develop its own Reconciliation Action Plan which is a framework for cultural change and commits the University to develop better opportunities and outcomes for Aboriginal people.

The University of South Australia also prides itself on being an integral part of, as well as a committed contributor to, the communities and society that it serves. That commitment is reflected in its vast worldwide alumni network and in the major artistic endeavours, sporting events and public attractions the University embraces and supports.

Lectures, seminars and research projects presented at the University's Hawke Centre attract national and international speakers and offer informed viewpoints on key global issues through events such as the annual Hawke Lecture, and the Nelson Mandela Lecture Series.

With its thought-provoking programs and exhibitions, the Samstag Museum of Art is one of Australia's pre-eminent contemporary art museums. It is recognised for its excellence and leadership, and its reputation is integral to the University being recognised as a leading Australian cultural institution.

The University is also a proud supporter of vital community events including the Adelaide Festival, WOMADelaide's Planet Talks and the Santos Tour Down Under UCI World Tour cycling race.

History of academic dress

Academic dress has a long history, almost as long as that of universities themselves. It began with the foundation of the European universities in the 12th and 13th centuries. Until that time, education was carried out within the monasteries, such as one at Oxford where divinity, philosophy and arts were studied as early as the 8th century.

It was not until the 12th century that groups of teachers and students gathered together for classes outside monastery walls in a move that was recognisable as the beginnings of universities. Two of the outstanding schools at that time were in Bologna and Paris. During the 13th century the Roman legal word universitas became a common name for study groups. The third great university of the Middle Ages, Oxford, emerged at that time. Much of the symbolism of academic dress is bound up with the history of those early universities which have influenced the creation and maintenance of a distinctive form of dress.

In the earliest times, university statutes concerning academic costume were somewhat vague, and it was not until the late 14th and early 15th centuries, as lay fashions began to change, that universities began to adopt the policy of setting down particular requirements for the shape and cut of academic dress.

Over the centuries, gowns have evolved in various forms from the original outer garment or robe commonly worn by the laity and members of the clergy, to the many modern versions for the various levels of academic awards. Hoods have developed from the head coverings worn by students in the early ages. They were especially useful in inclement weather and in the draughty cloisters of monasteries.

At Canterbury, in the 13th century, the monks' hoods were lined with fur because of the cold. Windows in those days were not glazed.

It would seem that no matter how young a university is, one of the first priorities is to adopt a style of academic dress which is distinctive.

The University of South Australia is no exception. In 1991, the University acknowledged the academic dress of its predecessor institutions and then in February 1992, the University's academic dress was determined by the Council and the first graduation ceremonies wearing the new University of South Australia academic dress occurred during April 1992. It is interesting to note that the hood chosen is of Oxford Burgon style while the gown is of the Cambridge style, an interesting link with two of the greatest European universities of the Middle Ages.

Ceremony Tradition

Academic Procession and stage party

The traditional custom in which dignitaries of the university enter the graduation hall is known as the academic procession. The University of South Australia's academic procession is led by higher degree graduates and members of the University Council, followed by academic staff and senior management of the University, including the Vice Chancellor. The Chancellor is the last to enter.

Academics sit at the rear of the stage, with higher degree graduates and Council members in the second to front row. The front row is reserved for staff reading graduand names, the academic registrar, senior managers, the Vice Chancellor, guest speaker, honorary award recipients, special guests, and the Chancellor.

In some circumstances the Chancellor may be represented by the Deputy Chancellor or Pro Chancellor.

Academic Dress

Academic dress usually reflects the highest academic qualification of the wearer. Special ceremonial gowns are also worn and these represent the wearer's position and title. The Vice Chancellor can be recognised by the distinctive blue Fairford Brocade gown adorned with silver oakleaf lace, and black bonnet with blue tassel. The Chancellor's gown is also blue Fairford Brocade but incorporates gold oakleaf lace and notably this is worn with a black bonnet finished with a gold tassel. If you look carefully you will see that this gown also has a combination of gold stripes on each sleeve instead of the silver stripes located on the Vice Chancellor's gown.

Senior management wear a black gown with blue facing on the front and rear collar, and a black bonnet with silver tassel. The academic registrar wears a similar gown. However you will note that the blue facing is not as wide and the collar is black, and a black mortar board with blue tassel is worn. Readers wear the gown reflecting their highest award, as do Professors receiving the honorary title of Emeritus Professor, and those being awarded with the honorary title of University Fellow. Recipients of honorary Doctor of the University awards wear the prestigious blue University of South Australia honorary doctorate gown trimmed with yellow and red facing, and a red, yellow, and blue hood. A black bonnet with black tassel is the accompanying headwear.

Council members are distinguished with black silk-like gowns with red, blue, and yellow facing, and a black bonnet and gold tassel. Candidates graduating with a PhD wear a black Oxford-style gown with red facing, and those receiving professional doctorates wear the same style gown but with coloured facing representing their discipline.

End of Ceremony

The academic recession signals the end of the graduation ceremony and is led by the Chancellor, followed by the stage party in the reverse order to which it entered. Newly conferred graduates join the recession, signalling their entry to the academic community.

University of South Australia Awards

Degree types

University of South Australia students have a range of program options when undertaking their study. The following are examples of the degree titles you may hear during the graduation ceremony.

Doctor of Philosophy

Doctor of Philosophy programs provide training and education with the objective of producing graduates with the capacity to conduct research independently at a high level of originality and quality.

Professional Doctorate

A Professional Doctorate is a rigorous program of advanced study and research, designed specifically to meet the needs of industry and professional groups. Professional Doctorates usually consist of a blend of coursework and research.

Honours degree

The Honours degree is a separate, stand-alone one-year program of advanced studies for students who demonstrate a high level of achievement upon completion of their pass degree program.

Degree with Honours

A degree with Honours is a program of four or more years in duration, which includes a minimum of one year of advanced studies, for students who demonstrate a high level of achievement in the initial years of their program.

Double degree

A double degree is a program where two contrasting and complementary programs at the same level have been combined to complement each other, such that the core elements of the two awards are undertaken simultaneously and the requirements of each award are fully met. These graduates receive two parchments.

Co-badged degrees

A collaborative arrangement between recognised providers, resulting in a single award and may include the co-badging of a single parchment.

Dual degrees

Collaborative partnerships between the University of South Australia and another recognised provider enable students to undertake a degree jointly facilitated by both institutions. Graduates of these programs will be issued with parchments from each institution.

Embed yourself in the DNA of the Great Hall

By building the Great Hall we are creating a new heart of the University - an iconic venue where thousands of memories will be made.

The Great Hall will house graduation ceremonies as well as provide a venue for sports meets and alumni and corporate functions.

A 25-metre, five-lane, heated swimming pool will be situated one level below the main hall and will be built alongside a fully-equipped gym and an exercise room for yoga and dance classes.

You can leave your mark on UniSA. We are inviting you to make a donation of $1,000 to embed yourself in the DNA of the Great Hall in one of the permanent sculptural features of the facility.

Under the guidance of the design teams we have selected three spaces and sculptural forms where we can etch your name and your three words to live by – the Chandelier, the Inverted Pyramid and the Swimming Pool. Your name and three words will become a permanent fixture that will forever inform and inspire future generations of students.

You can join hundreds of other graduates who have already made the commitment. To read some of their stories or to participate in this unique initiative, please visit www.unisa.edu.au/greathall

25th Birthday Scholarship Fund

To celebrate our 25th Birthday this year, we have created a 25th Birthday Scholarship Fund to provide scholarships, grants and prizes to as many students as we can to inspire greatness and to give them the ability and motivation to keep going.

UniSA has more students from a disadvantaged background than any other university in South Australia, and there are many students at UniSA for whom money is a real issue. Many have multiple jobs to support themselves, some come from remote rural areas, and more than 25 per cent have little financial support at home - which puts them at risk of not completing their degrees and foregoing their dream.

As well as disadvantaged students, the 25th Birthday Scholarship Fund will help support students with high academic potential in the priority areas of Equity; Excellence; Indigenous; International; and Women in Science, Technology, Engineering and Maths.

The fund will support students tackling the problems of the world as they progress through masters and PhD studies, as well as students just starting out in their undergraduate studies who are finding their purpose and inspiration.

By making a donation to the 25th Birthday Scholarship Fund you can help future students. It is a wonderful way of giving back and acknowledging what you have accomplished. To give someone else a boost please visit
